

How to Help ?

As a sixer :

Now you have been given the role of sixer, you have a variety of extra responsibilities. Here are a few below. See if you can add one of your own.

- 1) To help your six and pack during Grand Howl.
- 2) To become a good role model, showing other cubs how to listen and behave during a pack evening.
- 3) To help the adults by giving out and collecting in paper, pens, paints, etc.

Can you think of one of your own ?

Helping a new cub, to your pack.

Now you have been given the role of helping a new cub, you have a variety of extra responsibilities. Here are a few below. See if you can add one of your own.

- 1) To help the new cub learn their Cub Scout Promise and Law.
- 2) To show them where the toilets are, where they hang their coat and where the leave items they make.
- 3) To introduce them to other cubs.
- 4) To answer any questions they may have about cubs.

Can you think of one of your own ?

Helping a cub, who is new to nights away.

Now you have been given the role of helping a new cub to camping, you have a variety of extra responsibilities. Here are a few below. See if you can add one of your own.

- 1) Sleep near to the cub, so you are there if they wake up in the night.
- 2) Help the cub keep their kit tidy, and show by example how you keep yours.
- 3) Help them find things, if they have lost them.
- 4) Answer any questions they have before going on a nights away visit, so they are really happy about going.
- 5) Whilst there, help them to remember where key locations are, such as the toilets, building, tents, etc.

Can you think of one of your own ?